DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

Claims 1-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter. Each of those claims recite subject matter that does not meet the statutory subject matter basis under current Office practice. For example claim 1 recited a measuring step and a calculating step, but does not transform an article or physical object to a different state or thing or otherwise produce a useful, concrete and tangible result based on producing 1) a useful result to be specific, substantial and credible, 2) a tangible result to change articles or materials to a different state or thing, and 3) a concrete result when a result can be assured, such that it does not fit a judicial except. Similarly, claim 8 recites that same non-statutory subject matter. Claims depending upon the non-statutory independently claimed invention are also rejected by virtue of their dependency. See MPEP 2106.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 1-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. Each of the independently claimed inventions and their depending claims recite subject matter not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention. For example, claim 1 recites on-going ascertainment but on page 3 line 10 of the specification begins a discussion of ongoing measurements. It is not clear to one skilled in the art how ascertainment is enabled. Also the recited partial water vapor measurements is not enabling because on specification page 4 beginning at line 29 water vapor pressure is measured, but not the claim does not recite pressure. Also the claimed ongoing measurements of the flow resistance for the water vapor is not enabled, because in specification page 6 beginning on line 25 flow resistance is merely a variable that is dependent upon pressure such that it can not be directly measured.

A broad range or limitation together with a narrow range or limitation that falls within the broad range or limitation (in the same claim) is considered indefinite, since the resulting claim does not clearly set forth the metes and bounds of the patent protection desired. See MPEP § 2173.05(c). Note the explanation given by the Board of Patent Appeals and Interferences in Ex parte Wu, 10 USPQ2d 2031, 2033 (Bd. Pat. App. & Inter. 1989), as to where broad language is followed by "such as" and then narrow language. The Board stated that this can render a claim indefinite by raising a question or doubt as to whether the feature introduced by such language is (a) merely exemplary of the remainder of the claim, and therefore not required, or (b) a required feature of the claims. Note also, for example, the decisions of Ex parte Steigewald, 131 USPQ 74 (Bd. App. 1961); Ex parte Hall, 83 USPQ 38 (Bd. App. 1948); and Ex parte Hasche, 86 USPQ 481 (Bd. App. 1949). In the present instance, claims 2, 10, and 13 recite the broad recitations pressure, sheets, and valve respectively, and the claims also recite preferably a rate, controllable, and arched respectively which is the narrower statement of the range/limitation.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. Claims 3, 10, and 13 are indefinite because each recite a broad recitation followed by a narrower recitation, as above. Claim 7 is indefinite because the values ascertained is not clearly defined in the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Bailey (US 4,251,975). The face of that reference discloses each of the claimed features as best understood from the non-statutory, non-enabling, and indefinite claimed invention.

Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by Thompson, Sr. (US 4,78,964). The face of that reference discloses each of the claimed features as best understood from the non-statutory, non-enabling, and indefinite claimed invention.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-18 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-12 of U.S. Patent No. 6,290,701.

Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because it would have been an obvious matter of design choice to modify the teachings of applicant's patented invention to include the currently claimed computer, measuring, and calculating steps to provide the same result using the same structure, and same means or way.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Other prior art references cited in this application teach one or more features of the claimed invention, but are not relied upon in rejecting the claims..
